Our Values

Developing young leaders
Scouts make decisions about running the Troop and the activities they participate in. Trained parent leaders provide oversight and guidance to ensure all activities are safe, fun, and inclusive.

Environmental stewardship
We live and act in accordance with the Outdoor Code and follow Leave No Trace principles. Scouts learn the principles and practices of environmental science and sustainability.

Learning new skills
From first aid, cooking, and wilderness survival, to effective leadership, communication, and personal management, the skills learned through Scouting serve Scouts for a lifetime.

Canoeing/Leadership Training at Russian River — 9/30/23

Outdoor adventure
Scouts put their skills to the test through outdoor adventure, including 6+ camping trips per year, day hikes from 5–20 miles, canoe expeditions, and an extended wilderness backpacking trip.

Caring for our community
We are the only troop to partner with SF Rec & Parks to improve our city's outdoor spaces. We have an annual food drive, help maintain district campsites, and take on special service projects.

Memorial Day Flag Planting, National Cemetery — 5/27/23

"I originally came because many of my cub scout friends were joining. But now I really love it and would never leave because Troop 333 is a great community with funny people and experienced leaders...."

— Nicholas N (11th grade)
